Dear Educators,

If we've not met, let us introduce ourselves. Scott Hanna - artist & inker for Marvel Comics/ Disney & D.C. Comics/Warner Bros. on monthly comics & graphic novels - IronMan, Wonder Woman, XMen, SpiderMan, Batman, Guardians of the Galaxy. Pamela Ptak - fashion designer, Lifetime TV Project Runway designer, red carpet interviewer/host for Princeton TV.

We co-founded a school to empower people and to share our artistic passion with the community. Together, we've amassed 40+ years experience teaching & lecturing at private schools, colleges, museums & community groups. We each offer a half dozen free events/ presentations per year on a first call/first served basis. Topics we teach...

And, of course, we cover careers in the arts and how critical it is to possess a deep understanding of the liberal arts - math, science, english, writing, languages, history, etc.

We're both alumni of Pratt institute in NYC and Pamela is an F.I.T. and Maison Sapho alumna also. Pamela taught graduate classes at Drexel U. & several of her students are now instructors at Philly colleges, while others are working professionals in NYC & LA. A number of our students are now enrolled at the top 3 art & fashion schools in the United States - Parsons, FIT and Pratt Institute. We help students with portfolio prep, college direction & industry connections.

Feel free to contact us to discuss beneficial programs for your group. We hope to be of service.

Sincerely,

Scott Hanna
